Hats of venerable old gentlemen were pulled down ever their eyes, the chignons of ladles were disarranged by the canes of the celebrators of a democratic victory, baskets and pails of mechanics were kicked from their hands into the street, and numerous other indisoretions of a locular nature were induged in. The End of a Boston Merchant.
Captain Jourdan, of the sixth police precinct, reported to the Central Police Office last evening the particulars of a sad occurrence in his precinct. It reported to the Central Police Office last evening the particulars of a sad occurrence in his precinct. It appears that about eight o'clock on Tuesday evening a man named P. C. Cambridge, Jr., aged about thirty-five years, residing at No. 217 K street, South Boston, Mass., took a room at the Manhattan House, No. 29 Centra street, for the night. At a late hour he retired to rest, but did not put in an appearance at the office at the usual hour yesterday morning. No notice was taken of this circumstance until about eight o'clock last evening, when the landlord, John Carroll, proceeded to the froom and forced open the door. A ghastly sight met his view. Upon the bed was the ceal body of Mr. Cambridge, a revolver clasped in the right hand. Captain Jourdan was promptly notified, and on hastening to the hotel made an examination that resulted in the discovery that the man had shot himself in the right temple. The Captain, Roundsman Clenchy and officers of the precinct removed the remains to the Sixth precinct station house, where it awaits the action of the Coroner.

An examination of the body at the station house resulted in the discovery of a memorandum book and papers showing that deceased was a merchant of Roston of good standing in the commercial community. In it was a letter addressed to "some good brother Mason," requesting that his papers and personal effects be sent to his dear wife, Chattle Cambridge, No. 217 K street, South Boston, Mass. Captain Jourdan promptly mothed Mrs. Cambridge of the deatt of her husband. An Inquest will be held to-day, Deceased is a member of the firm of Cambridge & Moneil, No. 379 Washington street, Boston.

THE ELECTIONS.

NEW YORK STATE.

Up to the hour of going to press this morning so few returns had been received outside of this city and Brooklyn that it was not possible to make up a table of the vote by counties. It seemed evident, however, that the democratic majority in the btate is larger than was at first supposed. Saratoga county, which was estimated to give a republican majority of 700, gives less than 200, while in Columbia county the official figures show a democratic majority of 805, instead of 800, show a democratic majority of 605, instead of 500, as was at first estimated. The democratic candidates for Secretary of State and Comptroller are elected by probably not less than 15,000 majority.

With regard to the other candidates on the State ticket, their majority seems to be considerably larger, the increase coming almost entirely from New York and Kings counties, in the latter of which Judge Lott, for the Court of Appeals, has a majority 3,000 larger than either Nelson or Allen.

The State Senate is certainly democratic by a mi jolity of two, which will be increased to four if the republican candidate is defeated in the Oneida dis-trict. The Assembly will probably be democratic by four to six majority, allowing for the doubtrul can

THE ELECTIONS IN OTHER STATES.

The result of the election in this State for members of the Legislature is as follows:—In the Senato
13 hold over, of whom 9 are democrats and 4 republicans. Eight were elected yesterday, of whom 4 are democrats and 4 republicans, as follows:—Democrats—Union county, a gain: Monmouth, Somerset and Warren. Republicans—Camden, Essex, Gioucester and Salem. The Senate now stands—Democrats, 13; republicans, 8. Democratic majority, 5—8

The House stands-Democrats, 33; republicans, 27. The democrats gain one each in Salem, Cum-berland, Passaic, Essex and Burlington. The republicans gain one each in Mercer, Hudson and Union. Democratio majority in the House six, s gain of three; democratic majority on the joint ballot, 11.

Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Nov. 8, 1862. Additional returns from the Massachusetts election do not vary the result indicated in the despatches of last night. The vote for Governor in 256 towns stands-for Claffin, 68,636; Adams, 47,390; Chamber lain, 12,800. Claffin leads Adams over 21,000.

So far as known the Legislature stands 141 republicans, 49 democrats and 19 labor reform; the Senate, 30 republicans, 9 democrats and 1 labor reform. It is estimated that the House stands 75 for prohibition and 123 for liceuse. Brooks, republican, is elected to Congress in the Seventa (Boutwell's) district by 3,000 majority over Saltonstall, democrat.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3-10 P. M. The result of the election in this State for members of the Constitutional Convention is not fully ascercertain that the republicans will have about ten majority in that body. Owing to the independent manner in which the people of this city and county voted yesterday, the labor of canvassing votes has been long and tedious, and at this hour, ten P. M., the work is scarcely com-pleted. The average majority for the citizens' ticket in the city, however, will not vary many votes from 10,000. The average majority for the citizens' ticket in the county is about 10,400. Every candidate on the citizens' ticket in both city and county elected. Every ward and precinct in the city gives a majority for the citizens' ticket. Of the twenty-six aldermen elected twenty-two were candidates on the citizens ticket, and all the twenty ward supervisors elected in the city were citizens' candidates.

The democratic ticket, with but one exception, is elected in this county by 300 majority.

Atonison, Nov. 3, 1869.
The democratic county ticket has a majority in this city.

THE CENTENARY OF UNIVERSALISM IN AMERICA.

Speeches by Horace Greeley, Dr. Chapin and Dr. Miner, of Boston.

The members and congregation of the Universalist Church in this city and neighborhood met together has night for the purpose of celebrating the centenary of Universalism in America, or, in other words, the celebration of the embodiment of the doctrine that all men will be saved from eternal death and eternal punishment. This doctrine appears to have been preached and publicly promulgated in America in a denominational form by the distinguished Universalist, Murray, in the year 1770, make it an occasion of thank offerings that a move-ment has been inaugurated throughout the States for the celebration of his centenary.

subscriptions to the centenary fund were announced amounting to $23,000. It is proposed to raise $2,000,000, to be devoted to various purposes connected with this denominational effort.

The following are the officers connected with this

The following are the officers connected with this movement of the Fifth avenue church meeting:—

Vice Presidents.—F. C. Havermeyer, Warren Harriot, L. Smith, C. R. Huntingdon, S. C. Herring, D. J. W. Clowes, N. Smith, C. H. Delamater, S. Wecks, G. Ricard, D. Strong, E. W. Crowell, M. Reynolds, R. G. Wilder, C. Barstow, P. M. Leavitt.

Secretaries.—J. Cushing, Jr., D. J. Stagg.

The meeting was opened by prayer, offered by the Rev. Richmond Fisk, President of St. Lawrence

Mr. GRORGE W. PLATT then took the chair and in a short speech referred to the beneficient and progressive character of the doctrines of Universalism. Mr. HORACE GREELEY was next called upon and he was received with applause. He said that the Universalists never desired to separate from the great body of Christians. If they were outside-the common communion, of Christians it was their adversaries that had caused it, and not in any way the result of the choice of Universalists. Mr. Greeiey then traced the progress of the Universalist doctrine through the history of the Christian Church, snowing that with the introduction of the principles of the-Reformation, the discovery of printing and the discovery of America there was a large and more precious proclamation of the truth. The English Church utimately forbade the proclamation of the truth. The English Church utimately forbade the proclamation of the truth. The English Church utimately forbade the proclamation of the ruth. The English Church utimately forbade the proclamation of the stuth the control of the stuth of Universalism, and therefore Universalists were outside the Church by the action of other Christians. There was a great talk about Christian union, and Mr. H. Ward beecher was the editor of a periodical that had "Christian Union" for its dide; but it was difficult to understand what the idea of Caristian union was. There was liberty given to read the truths of the Bible for themselves in the Universalist churches, and if they acknowledged the Fatheraood of dod, and that Christ was a tender sent from God, he was welcomed to their church. After referring to the praceiting of Universalism by Chancey, Mayhew and Huntingdon, Episcopal ciergymen, he said that in the year 1770 Mr. Murray came to America and distinctly proclaimed the truths of Universalism, and laid the foundation of this denomination in that year. It was, therefore, thought desirable that the year 1870 should be celebrated by Universalism, and laid the foundation of this denomination in that year. It was, therefore, thought desirable that the year 1870 should be celebrated by the fumber of the Universalism of the progress of the truths of Universalism may not be proceed to the proce he was received with applicate. He said that the Universalists never desired to separate from the great body of Christians. If they were outside the HopFrs MALT EXTRACT from No. 246 Murray street to 378

erty to this work, so that a century hence that which was given now would bear abundant fruit. (Applasse.)

Rev. Dr. Miner said that the history of Universalism had been that of a contest between two opposite parties. The Protestant world taught salvation for some and eternal damnation for the rest. The Eniversalists saw salvation complete and universal for all. That was the battle ground of their creed, but the Universalist exposition of the doctrine of endless punishment was now acknowledged and preached in all the churches, though it might not form part of their creeds. After a few more romarks in illustration of the epread of Eniversalism in the churches he said that the Centenary fund would endeavor to accomplish several enects. There were many churches needing to be reconstructed and turnished, several educational institutions to be founded, and also relief funds for the maintenance of indigent clergyinen and their families, and considerable home work in the churches. For these purposes it had been thought desirable to raise a fund of $2,000,000, to be called "The Murray Centenary Fund." Dr. Miner then referred to the necessity of the liberality of the churches being directed to this general fund and not to allow their liberality to be morely frittered away by local efforts, and to remember that a soul purified in California was as precious in the sight of angels as a soul purified in New York. In reierence to the subscriptions to the fund New York and Massachusetts ought to raise one-half of the entire sum. The small State of Indiana had raised $60,000 for an educational institution in her midst. He though thest liberal gifts should be made, because the educational institution in her midst. He though the side of the should be made, because the side of the subscriptions to the fund New York and Massachusetts ought to raise one-half of the entire sum.

Mr. P. T. Barnin then addressed the meeting in a very humorous speech, and concluded by statung that he should give $1,000, an amoundement that was received with applause.

Dr. Chartn addressed the meeting in a very spirit-surring address showing that ideas, however good in themselves required an organization and a development if they were to be a power in the world. He instanced the excellence and omnipotence of organization by a reference to the English Church and to the Roman Catholic Church, both of whom owed their inducatial position to their power to organize. Universalism must organize meer them it had done if it would do that work which was garected of it. He concluded by a very eduquent appeal to the therality of a New York andience and urged them to keep up the character for benevolence and public spirit which this city as eminonity possessed.

NATIONAL ACADEMY OF DESIGN.

The third winter exhibition at the Academy builds ng, on the corner of Fourth avenue and Twentythird street, opens to-day. Last evening the academicians invited their friends to a private view of the collection, which numbers 250 "pieces." Although there was not so large a crowd as often throngs the galleries on similar occasions the speciators repre-sented every class of cultivated society in our me-tropolis, and enjoyed a better chance than usual to see the pictures and statuary as well as each other. But beautiful faces and elegant dresses always dispute the attrac-tions that line the walls, and it is difficult to appro-ciate pictures properly by gaslight. Among the pictures are several by foreign artists and compara-tively few new works by our own. The latter are manifestly reserving their forces for the display which is promised for the spring exhibition. Meanwhile the winter exhibition will afford gratification to the growing taste of our community for the fine arts and will do something towards supplying the demand which must, sooner or later, arise for a permanent exhibition. We shall take an early opportunity to examine in detail the works on exhibition tunity to examine in detail the works on exhi at the Academy of Design.

This isom has been in operation at the recent National Skhibition of the American Institute, and has shown its capacity by actual work upon drugget six and one-fourth, yards in width and sik dress goods of the ordinary width.

It has graduated from this exhibition with the hignest honors, having taken the great Institute modal. This medal of honor is only awarded to such inventions as are highly useful as well as novel, and which have never before been managers because the substitution or otherwise.

The prize has therefore been carried off by this loom over all existing competitors, and it must now be considered the champion from of the world.

The result must be in the highest degree gratifying, not only to the inventor and the proprietors of this loom, but also those journals which, like ourselves, had the sagectly tearly predict a brilliant future for this remarkable invention.

The attention given to the invention in foreign journals shows the importance with which it is regarded. Most of the journals and periodicals of a technical character in Eegland, France and dermany, have published descriptions of the many of which were illustrated by senge-wings.

The twentom has met with an almost unprecedented success in this country, and it is now being infroduced in England and other European States.

The few incentions which the American Institute has, difficulties for the prize was by the Lysil Loom, gives the present wards peculiar significance.
